An Old Time Recipe.

Some advice to secure health and longevity is found in an old and unidentified print: First, take advice from none; consult only yourself; second, take your digestion into your confidence and place yourself at its disposal, listening to no suggestion from your palate, which is greedy and selfish; third, avoid all books on diet and sleep in a room with the windows open, and, fourth, take a cheerful view of your surroundings and allow as little as possible to disturb your serenity.

BACKBONE OF FARM PLAN.

The backbone of any successful farm plan is the system followed in crop production, says the Country Gentleman. About the first thing the county agent looks into when he visits the farm are whether a well established rotation is consistently followed from year to year and whether this rotation is adapted to the type of soil, the climate and the uses to which the crops are put. Nearly every important improvement in the farm plan must follow the line of the rotation. The use of fertilizers must conform to it, and the silo, the storage facilities and the animals kept to consume the forage are all influenced by it.

LULLABY.

Day is stealing down the west,
Tender, drowsy sounds are heard
Closer now each downy bird
Creeps beneath mother wings to rest.
In the fading sky afar,
Kindled by some angel hand
Twinkling comes a tiny star—
Baby's guide to Sleepy Land.

Cooler, darker grows the air,
Eerie shadows haunt the room.
In the garden, through the gloom,
Wildering bats and owlets fare.
But the lambs and birdies seem Happy now at home to keep,
And a darling little dream
Smiles at baby in his sleep.
—Florence Earle Coates.

Notice for Publication

August 24, 1914

MERROW DOWN.

There runs a road by Merrow
Down—
A grassy track today it is—
An hour out of Guilford town,
Above the river Wex it is.

Here, when they heard the horse
bells ring,
The ancient Britons dressed and rode
To watch the dark Phoenicians bring Their goods along the western road.

And here, or hereabouts, they met
To hold their racial talks and such—
To barter beads for Whitby jet,
And tin for gay shell torques and such.

Then beavers built in Broad-stone brook
And made a swamp where Bramley stands;
And bears from Shere would come and look For Taffini where Shamley stands.

—Rudyard Kipling.

Belles-Lettres.

Two authors' wives were having tea
together.

"My husband," said one, "often sits at his desk thinking and thinking and chewing his pen handle."

"As for my husband," said the other,
"he has already gnawed off a corner of his typewriting machine."—New York Post.
